INTERNATIONAL SILVER MEN

There is a class of political straddlers, who dislike to be called goldbugs, who are continually asserting that they are in favor of free silver if England will agree to it. They seem to lay great stress on the superior wisdom of John Bull and the ability he has displayed in financial and economic affairs generally and would not upon any consideration restore silver to its old standard without his consent. As Mr. Bull buys about fifty or sixty millions of ounces of silver in the United States annually and has a pecuniary interest in keeping the price of the metal as low as possible, of course the level-headed old gentleman will never willingly consent to increase its market value. Last year he bought over $30,000,000 worth of silver bullion in the United States at an average price of about 64 cents per ounce. He coined much of this bullion into shillings at the ratio of 15 1/2 to 1, making it worth $1.34 per ounce. Do our international silver men believe that so shrewd a personage as Mr. Bull will enter into an agreement with the United States to enhance the value of a metal which he has to purchase abroad and on which he now more than doubles his money just to oblige them? Do they know that Mr. Bull has vast interests in Asia and that his 220,000,000 subjects in the East Indies will sell as much cotton or wheat for a rupee to-day as they did when the silver in the coin cost Mr. Bull twice as much as it does now? Do they think that Mr. Bull under those circumstances will do any thing knowingly and willingly that will compel him to pay $1.20 an ounce in the United States for the silver which he now buys for a little more than half that amount and which is just as valuable to him when he coins it as if it costs $1.30 per ounce? If they do they must think Mr. Bull is as foolish as they proclaim themselves to be.

If our American politicians who profess to be in favor of free coinage, in England is willing, would think a moment of the great benefits England derives from our present financial system at the expense of the American producer they would scarcely expect the American people to defer the free coinage of silver until England consented. England has more gold than any other nation on the globe. By making gold the sole standard of value it limits the amount of primary money in the world. That increases the purchasing power of gold and Mr. Bull can get as much wheat, as much cotton, as much pork and as much beef from the United States for a sovereign as he could for two of those coins if silver was remonetized. Our exports of farm products to England last year were up to the average in quantity, but in value were not much more than half what they would amount to before the adoption of the gold standard. Is it not expecting too much of Mr. Bull to have him enter into an agreement to double the price of those commodities? Would he be the wise financier and economist our international silver men represent him to be if he voluntarily did so? If those international bimetalists, as they dignifiedly style themselves, who expect England to restore silver will turn the X ray on their brains they will discover something wrong in their mental arrangement, and that they are deluding themselves or, what is more probable, trying to delude the public.

THE RAILROAD QUESTION

Those who entertained hopes that Mr. Reed's Congress would not pass a bill to refund the bond-aided railroad debts to the Government now admit that those hopes are dissipated. The sub-committee of the Senate and House Railroad Committees has outlined a bill for the funding of the debts of the Central and Union Pacific. This bill is expected to be approved by the full committees and will be reported favorably to both Houses of Congress. It may pass at this session, or possibly may be placed on the calendar and kept there until after the Presidential election. That, however, will depend upon the conclusions reached by the Steering Committee of the House of Representatives. If the committee is satisfied that it will not injure the Republican party on this Coast the bill will be passed before Congress adjourns. As the people of the interior need no longer expect that the Central and Union Pacific roads will be run by the Government, their only hope of securing cheaper transportation rates from the East lies in the Interstate Commerce Commission. That Commission, at the instigation of Colorado shippers, has brought suit against several railroads, among others the Southern Pacific, for discriminating between long and short hauls in the same direction. The companies are cited to appear and answer in the United States Circuit Court at Denver on May 4th. What will Nevada do in the matter? Will our merchants and others, who complain against the unjust discrimination which compels them to pay about three times as much for a carload of freight from points east of the Missouri as is charged for the same service over the Sierra Nevada to Sacramento, continue to talk, but do nothing? Why should not the people of Nevada be represented in the Circuit Court at Denver to present their side of the case? An able man with documentary evidence, such as expense bills, might do much for the State? A plain statement of the fact that the freight charges on a carload of merchandise from Chicago to Reno is about three times as much as if the freight was taken to Sacramento, 154 miles farther west, ought to be sufficient to induce the Commission, if it is impartial and believes in fair play, to interpose its authority in behalf of the people and compel an adjustment of rates. It is the great complaint which the people of the interior, especially those of Nevada, have against the Central and Union Pacific roads. If that great cause for constant grumbling was removed, very few would object to the funding bill, and the railroad would be popular, as common carriers should be, in the community with which it does business.

If Nevadans do not send a representative to Denver, backed with indisputable evidence to show the injustice of charging the people three times what is charged over the same line in the same direction to Sacramento, they should bridge their tongues and forever hold their peace so far as railroad charges are concerned.

J. S. Clarkson, member of the Republican National Committee from Iowa, was recently in San Francisco and conferred with several prominent Republicans from California and Nevada. He has returned East and gives it as his opinion that eighty or one hundred delegates from this coast will go to the convention instructed to vote for Teller or Cameron. Let us hope that Mr. Clarkson is correct and that one or the other of the gentlemen named will be nominated, but he won't suit the place hunters.

The Carson Appeal asks the following: "Isn't it about time for the Hon. Trenmore Coffin, Chairman of the Republican Central Committee, to meet and write a letter to Mr. Barine reading him out of the party for advocating the cause of silver?"

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

PINE NUT.

The New Town of Zircville—Straws for Miners and Farmers.

Editor's Journal: Spring has come and with it a marked activity on the part of the fortune hunters in the Pine Nut District.

The recent storm, though severe and disagreeable, was a godsend to the parched ranges, and also made the roads pleasant for travel. On Anderson Creek, about 14 miles east of Gardnerville, a little settlement has sprung up. It already bears the dignified name of a town. It is called Zircville.

In honor of Wendolin Zirn, the discoverer of Pine Nut.

Otto Schulz, the Carson butcher, and W. Zirn, from all over the State, will start up their new five-stamp quartz mill to-morrow, the 1st of April, with an expert mill man from the Comstock. At the same time they will run a boarding-house.

W. H. Stone has a comfortable cabin and a stable.

Warren Whitney and Jack Wall will have a large saloon and a miners' supply store in running order by the 5th of April. These two gentlemen are the popular Carson agents of the John Wieland Brewing Company. Jack Wall, one of the Carson Agricultural Directors, played an important part in rendering the last district fair a success.

Further up the canyon, between the incipient town and the mines, is situated a formidable array of cabins. They are owned respectively by Chas. Schulz, Raycraft Bros., Wm. McCormick, Sheriff of Douglas County; Major Gardner, Felix Martin & Co., Chris. Klotz, Ben Martin, Willette Bros. and several Frenchmen, whose names it is unsafe to spell from hearing them pronounced by an Irishman. They are all busy and exhibit some fine specimens of ore.

To recur to W. Zirn. He has quite often been accused of being a crank, and imbibing too much of "lansy" at times. In justice to him, an overwhelming majority of the people that know him for many years will declare that on both "counts" he compares favorably with any ordinarily smart man, be he editor, lawyer or Congressman. At any rate, he spent his best years in trying to develop the mineral resources of Nevada, and to his never-flagging energy and persistent prospecting proclivities the Pine Nut District in its present shape owes its existence. These offenses charged to Zirn are nothing as compared to the crime of telling the truth about anything touching Genoa. Some one will immediately publish a card, calling the offender a horse thief and condemning him, without a trial, to spend the rest of his days in an insane asylum. A few there are unable to appreciate a joke.

IRRIGATION.

With all the arid portions of the farming districts, particularly in the western part of the State, even where there is a river like the Truckee, with a great full and many ditches—irrigation seems to be one of the great questions of the day. I mention the West, because of its nearness to California and a better market, by reason of the large herds of cattle being fattened for the San Francisco markets, etc. The farms in proximity to rivers are all right, but the more remote ranches have to depend upon occasional rains and scanty mountain springs. The last mentioned might profit by studying and applying a moral deducted from the subjoined little episode, which is supposed to have occurred in a Lutheran Sunday schoolroom. It is best understood in form of the following dialogue between the schoolma'am and a boy, where the latter carried the day:

Q.—Which are the two principal things necessary for a baptism?

A.—A baby and water.

Q.—Why do you mention the water last?

A.—Because water is always plentiful for all purposes, but for a baptism I thought we should get the baby first before we could make use of the water.

Now, apply this principle to the arid districts. The rivers at the present time are bankful, some even overrunning their borders in many places. There is also a profuse quantity of water coming down the mountain sides, but, alas!—the reservoirs to catch and store the waste for a dry day are not in evidence.

In reply, these same farmers may say: "All this moralizing looks very fine on paper, but where can the poor man get the money for building those reservoirs? Why do you not point out the means?"

To this query the writer, not being a practical farmer, would simply suggest the common-sense plan of co-operation, which, in part only, is not new. Let the rich and poor farmers combine, place implicit confidence in your present Representative, who will, with the aid of Congress and his private means, try every means in his power to achieve the desired result. Mr. Newlands has tried already, but in certain counties he was repudiated, as the majority of their voters was led into the mistaken belief by his political opponents that his scheme was to steal the rivers and sell their contents back to the owners of prior rights at an exorbitant figure. What an absurdity! As every American citizen has the undisputed right to express his opinion, I venture to say that that portion of the irrigation question, which relates to Newlands, in the above described manner, was a mere sham—a scheme evolved in the minds of a few brought to a successful termination by the majority of "prior right" owners, who were afraid of running short of water if some of it should be diverted into the contemplated reservoirs, or if,

as to the Carson River, the quartz mills should be started up all of a sudden.

As a result the "arid" farmer was "bamboozled" all around, and unwittingly cast a vote against his own interests.

LOCAL AND GENERAL NEWS.

Items of Interest From Here, There and Everywhere.

A fifty-three ton lot of ore from the April Fool mine at DeLamar, Nevada, sampled $213 per ton.

Colonel Hardin is shipping twenty-four carloads of extra fine beavers from Humboldt to the Eastern market.

Thousands of acres of land have been taken up in Southern Nevada recently, and it is reported that many acres will be under cultivation this year.

The Silver State says there is a disease something like epizootic which afflicts horses in Humboldt county and from which a number have died.

The White Pine News says the output of copper in Robinson is increasing daily, and it is now an assured fact that the smelter will be started not later than the 15th of April.

The Independent says the Humboldt river is rising quite rapidly at Elko. Yesterday the water gauge at the Government gauging station near the lower bridge showed that the water is but four inches lower than it was at the highest point recorded last year.

Pohn Poole, Charley Harvey and D. L. West some weeks ago discovered in Central District a ledge with very promising crops. As it is located well upon a large mountain, the boys commenced about forty feet down the mountain side to run in a tunnel in hopes of striking the ledge. They have been working on it some weeks and a few days ago, after having run the tunnel about 75 feet, tapped the ledge and it proved at that depth to be a strong, well defined vein about three feet wide, which the owners claim will go $100 per ton in gold.

Happy Dave and Tom Sullivan, two pretty lively Pintos, told how they got a four-bit flask of whisky from defendant and drank it up satisfactorily between them, resulting in Dave's subsequent arrest on the street for being drunk. Says Dave: "The officer smelt me and asked me where I got my whisky, so I told him and went with him and the Chief Fitzgerald up to McNamara's house on the side of the mountain, above the fire department house. Tom Sullivan paid for the whisky—had made six-bits gambling the day before."

Peter Fitzgerald, Chief of Police at Virginia City, testified relative to the arrest of McNamara, how they went to his house and he tried to hide away and refused their admittance till a warrant for his arrest was procured. Sheriff Quirk corroborated some of the material points.

W. N. McNamara, on the stand in his own behalf, said he never sold a drop of whisky to any Indian. Didn't know these Indian witnesses at all. Always tried to keep Indians away from his premises. Wasn't there at the alleged time of the whisky purchase, but failed to prove his alibi in that respect.

The arguments of counsel and the Judge's charge was brief and pointed and at about 3 P. M. the jury, after being out about 20 minutes, brought in a verdict of guilty as charged. Sentence to-morrow morning.

And now comes a general rumor of trouble in the Carson postoffice to the following effect: That a United States postal agent or detective arrived yesterday to investigate this postoffice and that he was closely in communication with the boudsmen of the present Postmaster, Mr. Bell, most of to-day. He avoids any reportorial interview and we will probably have to wait till we hear or find something further. It will be recollected that a small financial trouble was reported in this office about a year ago, but it was satisfactorily adjusted. The mint business is bad enough for the credit of Carson and the State without any postoffice chipping in.

The sad, fiery death of Johnny Sweeney last night has cast a gloom over the town to-day. He was walking about among his friends yesterday, happy and hilarious, and walked home to his little Carson dairy ranch, about half a mile northeast of town, about 6 P. M. At midnight a fiery light told of the fatal conflagration. He was all alone, his wife being in San Francisco on a visit. Indications go to show that he threw a box containing his wife's jewelry and valuables out of a window and attempted to drag out her big trunk, when he became bewildered and overpowered by the heat and smoke. His remains were taken from the embers two hours and a half afterward. Both legs were burned off, also an arm and both hands, and the head destroyed. The first comers rescued his horses and some of his chickens. All also except the outhouses was a total loss.

Johnny Sweeney was about 50 years

A Curiosity.

Frank Thompson, with C. J. Brookins, has a copy of the Daily Citizen dated July 2, 1893, published at Vicksburg, Mississippi. This particular issue of the paper is printed on an ordinary quality of wall paper and as an example of the feeling existing at that time the following is given: "That the great Ulysses—the Yankee Generalissimo, surnamed Grant—has expressed his intention of dining in Vicksburg on Saturday next and celebrating the Fourth of July by a grand dinner and so forth. When asked if he would invite General J. O. Johnson to join he said, 'no, for fear there will be a row at the table.' Ulysses must get into the city before he dines. The way to cook a rabbit is first to catch him."

In another column the paper gracefully takes its medicine, and publishes the following: "July 4, 1893—Two days bring about great changes. The banner of the Union floats over Vicksburg. General Grant has caught the rabbit; he has dined in Vicksburg and he did bring his dinner with him. The Citizen lives to see it; for the last time it appears on wall paper. No more will it eulogize the luxury of mule meat and fricasseed kitten or urge Southern warriors to such diet never more." This is the last wall paper edition and will be valuable as a curiosity.

STATE CAPITAL NOTES.

United States District Court—Coffin Files a Demurrer and Motion to Quash Indictment—Buttermilk Jake Convicted—Rumored Trouble in the Carson Postoffice—Johnny Sweeney's Sad Cremation.

(Correspondence of the JOURNAL.)

CARSON CITY, April 1, 1896. At the opening of court this morning Torreyson & Semmerfield, attorneys for Coffin, filed a demurrer and motion to quash the indictment against their client, Coffin, on charge of being connected with bribery in the Langevin-Heney-Circe matter. In response to expressed desire of counsel to set the trial of the case at some time next month, His Honor said he would postpone further consideration of the matter till 10 o'clock to-morrow morning.

The list of the old regular venire of trial jurors was called and all excused till to-morrow morning.

The names of the new venire of twenty talesmen were called and all responded. Out of these twelve were selected to try the "Buttermilk Jake" Indian whisky case over again.

Officers Grabner and Wooley of the Virginia Police and Fire Department testified to defendant keeping a rendezvous for Indians who wanted whisky, and that neighbors had made complaint to them, leading to detection.

Happy Dave and Tom Sullivan, two pretty lively Pintos, told how they got a four-bit flask of whisky from defendant and drank it up satisfactorily between them, resulting in Dave's subsequent arrest on the street for being drunk. Says Dave: "The officer smelt me and asked me where I got my whisky, so I told him and went with him and the Chief Fitzgerald up to McNamara's house on the side of the mountain, above the fire department house. Tom Sullivan paid for the whisky—had made six-bits gambling the day before."

Peter Fitzgerald, Chief of Police at Virginia City, testified relative to the arrest of McNamara, how they went to his house and he tried to hide away and refused their admittance till a warrant for his arrest was procured. Sheriff Quirk corroborated some of the material points.

W. N. McNamara, on the stand in his own behalf, said he never sold a drop of whisky to any Indian. Didn't know these Indian witnesses at all. Always tried to keep Indians away from his premises. Wasn't there at the alleged time of the whisky purchase, but failed to prove his alibi in that respect.

The arguments of counsel and the Judge's charge was brief and pointed and at about 3 P. M. the jury, after being out about 20 minutes, brought in a verdict of guilty as charged. Sentence to-morrow morning.

And now comes a general rumor of trouble in the Carson postoffice to the following effect: That a United States postal agent or detective arrived yesterday to investigate this postoffice and that he was closely in communication with the boudsmen of the present Postmaster, Mr. Bell, most of to-day. He avoids any reportorial interview and we will probably have to wait till we hear or find something further. It will be recollected that a small financial trouble was reported in this office about a year ago, but it was satisfactorily adjusted. The mint business is bad enough for the credit of Carson and the State without any postoffice chipping in.

The sad, fiery death of Johnny Sweeney last night has cast a gloom over the town to-day. He was walking about among his friends yesterday, happy and hilarious, and walked home to his little Carson dairy ranch, about half a mile northeast of town, about 6 P. M. At midnight a fiery light told of the fatal conflagration. He was all alone, his wife being in San Francisco on a visit. Indications go to show that he threw a box containing his wife's jewelry and valuables out of a window and attempted to drag out her big trunk, when he became bewildered and overpowered by the heat and smoke. His remains were taken from the embers two hours and a half afterward. Both legs were burned off, also an arm and both hands, and the head destroyed. The first comers rescued his horses and some of his chickens. All also except the outhouses was a total loss.

Johnny Sweeney was about 50 years

A Curiosity.

Frank Thompson, with C. J. Brookins, has a copy of the Daily Citizen dated July 2, 1893, published at Vicksburg, Mississippi. This particular issue of the paper is printed on an ordinary quality of wall paper and as an example of the feeling existing at that time the following is given: "That the great Ulysses—the Yankee Generalissimo, surnamed Grant—has expressed his intention of dining in Vicksburg on Saturday next and celebrating the Fourth of July by a grand dinner and so forth. When asked if he would invite General J. O. Johnson to join he said, 'no, for fear there will be a row at the table.' Ulysses must get into the city before he dines. The way to cook a rabbit is first to catch him."

In another column the paper gracefully takes its medicine, and publishes the following: "July 4, 1893—Two days bring about great changes. The banner of the Union floats over Vicksburg. General Grant has caught the rabbit; he has dined in Vicksburg and he did bring his dinner with him. The Citizen lives to see it; for the last time it appears on wall paper. No more will it eulogize the luxury of mule meat and fricasseed kitten or urge Southern warriors to such diet never more." This is the last wall paper edition and will be valuable as a curiosity.
